THE Nineteen Hundred BLACK

and Sixty
AND GOLD

Her portals, tall and wide,
Call us from every side,
Our youthful steps to guide
For future days.
Her pleasant paths, her trees,
Whisper courage through the breeze ;
Our greatest need she sees
And leads always.

May we more useful be,
Always our duty see,
Strive on to victory
Through the Golden Rule.
May we always aspire
To lift her banners higher,
Add to her fame and power ;
God bless our school.

Mr. Mitchell poses in his outfit which he wore on Block and Gold day.

Our dedication is well received by our good friend and history teacher.

Dedication

Tall and lanky, with expressive hands, a constant smile, and a personality that wins the hearts of everyone he meets — that's Mr. Mitchell. We've sat entranced in his sociology and American history classes, listening to history come alive as he put a little of himself into each lesson. We've laughed at his hilarious comments and repeated them again and again to classmates, and we've suddenly grown serious and thought a little deeper as he discussed the gravity of an important event. Now, to Mr. Mitchell, for his wonderful personal qualities and his great teaching ability, we, the seniors, dedicate this book.

MR. McLEAN MITCHELL

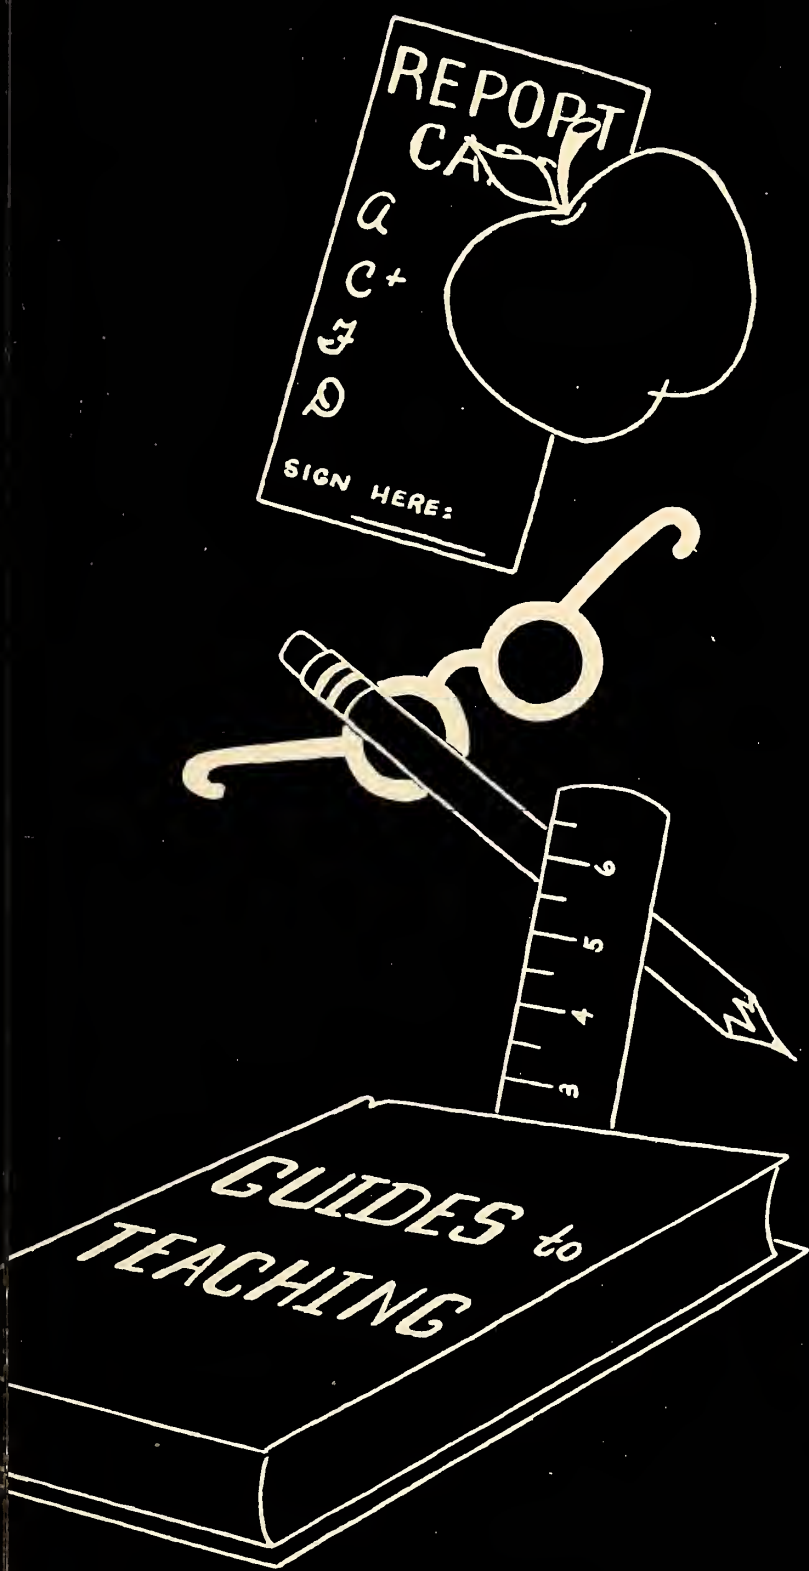

Foreword

Our annual for 1960 is built around the theme of Reynolds High School. We use the words of our Alma Mater to present the different phases of our daily school life. We hope that this annual may serve as a reminder of our past school days and will continue to bring memories in the years to come.

Her portals, tall and wide,
Call us from every side,
Our youthful steps to guide
For future days.

MISS HAZEL STEPHENSON CLASS SPONSOR

Thanks, Miss Stephenson, for your help in making this year such a meaningful one for us. You've guided us in all our duties and responsibilities as seniors and shown a genuine interest in each of us as individuals. Through your teaching we've gained a great knowledge of human nature as well as of literature and grammar. We'll always remember you. THE SENIOR CLASS

SENIOR MASCOTS

Debbie Bryant, with her bobbing pony tail, and Randy Vance, with his appealing grin, were the pride of the senior class this year. The two mascots delighted everyone at Class Day and the Senior Picnic.

Class Prophecy

Introduction

Travel back with us to a dark room, located high in a tower above a pounding sea. Here six sages have gathered to talk over the great days of prophesying and to decide among themselves which one can see best and farthest into the future. The oldest is Fearless Fitts, a greatly renowned seer; the next, Heartless Hart, the prophetess who predicted the death of Julius Caesar. Ageless Eisenberg, the only one to predict something years after it happened, is conferring with Witch Wasell, and her friend and accomplice, Swingin' Swain, who have materialized from the spirit world especially for this occasion. Last and least important is Cloudy Pratt, a sleepy amateur prophet from Outer Afganistan. Having invoked the proper phantoms and having made several preliminary prophecies for warm-up, the seers are preparing for competition. The first to speak is Fearless Fitts.

- F. FITTS: Look far and breathe deeply. I can see three ships on a wide, rolling ocean. The crews have sighted land after weeks of weary watching. Apparently they have just discovered America you know—the New World.
- A. EISENBERG: I can see farther than that. A place called Winston-Salem will be founded by a band of Moravians who play trumpets.
- H. HART: Why is that tremendous pile of red bricks on a hill in the middle of the town?
- S. SWAIN: Can't you see a public building taking form? Look at all the rooms. Why, there are blackboards on the walls! We must be seeing the 1924 construction of Richard J. Reynolds High School.
- C. PRATT: All I am able to see is a mass of blurry years filled with faces and dates. But wait, I'm beginning to distinguish one year from the rest. It is 1955. A stately edifice dominates the scene. Magnificent columns adorn the porch of the massive auditorium. Adjacent is the center of this institution of higher learning.
- On the third floor there are small people wandering through the halls searching for room numbers and looking for the "down" stairs. Why such confusion?
- A. EISENBERG: They must be the eighth graders experiencing their first week at Reynolds High School.
- H. HART: As insignificant as they are, it isn't taking them long to get acquainted with the Demon way of life and to enter the rush to participate in clubs and fall sports. As the year progresses, they enjoy their school life more and more. They learn the rules, find their way around the building, and begin to envy upper-classmen. They get their first taste of chapel programs through pep rallies, Honor Society inductions, the Christmas program, and Key Club Follies. June arrives; eighth-grade diplomas are awarded; and these students proudly assert that they are freshmen and are a real part of the high school.
- F. FITTS: Their freshman year begins with a whirl of academic activities as well as membership in the band, Student Government, and other important organizations. The election of class officers—Britt Smith, Carl Adams, Dorothy McQuown, and Harold Bender—highlights the first semester. Nancy Dunham, Ellen Bair, and Betty Ward are three of the majorettes proudly strutting and twirling before the band.
- S. SWAIN: Many of the freshman girls are active participants in speedball, basketball, and recreational sports. As a reward for their interest and loyalty Brenda Chappell, Linda Lockard, Frances Brasco, and Mary Ann Hart are initiated into the Girl's Athletic Association and begin their long terms of service. John Dixon, a member of the golf team, and Jerry Muecke and Dan Powell, members of the tennis team, are other freshmen who excell in spring sports.
- C. PRATT: It is August, 1957, and we see boys equipped with helmets and shoulder pads engaged in fierce combat on Hanes Field. Much to their delight, sophomores Sam Robinson, Wayne Colter, and Lyle Blalock are elected to play this game called football.

W. WASELL: When the school year officially opens, Ja Clary, Sharon Edwards, Judy Steadman, George Little, and Bill Masten are proud to be chosen members of the choir. Frances Speas brings recognition to the sophomore class by achieving the status of finalist in the World Peace Speech Contest. As spring arrives we see David Gaskins and Jim Stuart engaged in varsity baseball; Bobby Stallings, in golf; and Diane Westmoreland, Peggy Parrish, and Phyllis Clanton, in softball.

- A. EISENBERG: We lose sight of our subjects for the next three months as they scatter to summer vacation land. However, after a short wait we see them back amid the pines on September 3, 1958. Having survived the confusion of registration, schedule changes, and the first football game, students begin struggling to interpret Emerson, translate Cicero, and memorize the metric system. Howard Butner and Dan O'Flaherty, two members of the junior class, succeed in becoming varsity debaters and make their class proud of them.
- S. SWAIN: The selection of the Junior-Senior Dance committee arouses a feeling of excitement and anticipation among the juniors. Cricket Coan and John Davis become co-chairmen. Lealan Nunn, Rusty Vaughan, and Landis Wilcox are several of the hard workers who transform the gym into a tropical paradise with flowers, gardens, greenery, bridges, ponds, and a waterfall.
- H. HART: The greatest thrill of the year for some juniors is their induction into the National Honor Society. Barbara Hartnett, David Newsome, Sarah Smith, Susan Blackmore, Steve Gramley, and Mariann Sanders are among those whom we see standing on the stage holding their flickering candles and solemnly promising "to uphold the ideals of the society to which I have been elected." Three of the class members receive statewide recognition for their abilities: Buddy Swaringen, winner of the chemistry contest; and Diane Rollick and Nancy Wasell, all-state orchestra participants.
- W. WASELL: As usual, spring sports attract the athletes of the class. Pat Barbee and Sandra Craft are active members of the tennis team.
- In April, thoughts turn toward the senior year with the election of Agnes Fitts, President of the Student Government, and Sandra Lineberger, Speaker of the House of Representatives.
- F. FITTS: During the summer, while most of the rising seniors are relaxing at a certain beach in South Carolina, Ellen Holmes and Susan Thorpe are experiencing the delights of Europe. They are spreading the fame of R.J.R. from Rome to London, while Barney Barnhardt is spreading it from Delaware to Arizona as the Reynolds representative to Boys' State and as North Carolina's delegate to Boys' Nation.
- C. PRATT: Finally in the fall of 1959, year of quiz show queries and the cranberry crisis, we view the stately seniors of Reynolds High School. Britt Smith and Tony Dunn are leading the determined gridders through a successful season. Bill Larmore, Louis Calhoun, and Dickie Frizzell are three faithful seniors who give devotedly to the team. Cricket Coan, chief cheerleader, leads Linda Watson, Phyllis Snyder, and the entire student body in supporting the team. Working hard to provide entertainment for each game are chief drum major, Sandy Ogden; chief majorette, Meriel Mitchell; and majorette choreographer, Betty Ward.
- F. FITTS: The highlight of the band's activities is a trip to Washington, D.C. to perform for the Washington Redskins on national television. We see Sarah Young, Marsha Potter, Carol Howell, and other Dancing Boots shivering in 30-degree December weather at Griffith Stadium. Band members, Priscilla Briggs, Bill Gilbert, and Judy Newsom, are forming intricate figures on the field and are providing music for the Dancing Boots.
- S. SWAIN: The Children's Home football team is also celebrated for winning ten successive games and their conference title. Brenda Dowell, chief cheerleader, Brenda Foster, Doris Goodwin, Ann Stone, Carole Padgett, Martha Barnette, and all the Home supporters cheer Bill Dobbins, Lynwood Satterwhite, Jim Summers, Jae Brittain, and the Home team to victory. Basketball season also proves rewarding to the Children's Home varsity cagers, Bob Davidson, Grady Mitchell, David Gurley, and Mike Ashburn.

Class Prophecy

H. HART: The Pine Whispers staff is doing a thorough job of reporting school activities. Editor, Chris Farran, and his assistant Cecile Mayrand, with the help of April Collier, Norman Wilkerson, and Nancy Pike are working energetically to prepare the next edition of the paper. In the midst of all this hustle and bustle the Black and Gold editors, Mary Elizabeth Hunt and Phyllis Ray, are steadily striving toward the completion of the 1960 annual.

A. EISENBERG: Numerous clubs claim the time and efforts of many seniors. Managing club activities important to the school are Beth Swain and Sharon Taylor of the G. A. A.; Eva Foxworth, Resegis; Pat Bowers, College Club president; Brenda Walsh, Library Staff; and Bill Senkus, president of the National Forensic League.

S. SWAIN: Jody Vance charms New York journalists on her trip to the National Y-Teen Conventnon. Her comments on juvenile delinquency are quoted on the front page of a leading New York newspaper.

H. HART: The year grows shorter, and for the last time the seniors compete in spring sports, clown in the Key Club Follies, and dance at the Spring Prom. They seem astounded that the day of the senior picnic, their final fling, has actually arrived.

F. FITTS: Now we see seated on the stage a bevy of girls clad in soft pastel dresses and boys looking rather uncomfortable in Sunday suits. What IS THIS? . . .

ALL: Class Day? . . . A Last Will and Testament? . . .

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

As this, the Class of 1960, departs,

We'd like to speak from the depths of our hearts.

To Mr. Joyner and our teachers of the past five years

We say "thank-you" and regret that graduation nears.

Since we will cherish you, dear
Reynolds High,

We want to be remembered by our friends, by and by;

So, juniors, listen carefully because what we have to say

Concerns you, next year's seniors, in a very special way.

Same advice to the Collinses from Jean and Jaan

Is to keep the uniqueness that only twins own.

Bill Grant, our head basketball man,

Urges John Barrow to play the best that he can.

Harvey Morgan leaves Bob Zeh his ability to dance.

Betty Chafin gives Kay Cook her talent to prance.

Linda Reynolds enjoys playing the flute

And bestows her talent to whom it may suit.

Bob Snow insists that our Reynolds
High Band

By going to Washington proved best in the land.

Some words to the juniors are said
by Jean Cly,

"Enjoy high school now, for the days do fly!"

Terry Jarvis in Public Speaking did find

Study and work, which he leaves behind.

Charlene Markunas has liked debating

And tells Carter Philips to make a good rating.

Ann Pulliam is noted for goodness and joy,

Qualities we all should like to employ.

Geraldine Howell bestows her science knowledge

To whoever will need it when he gets to college.

Steve Leverton leaves his algebra book

To some mathematician who through it will look.

Bill Mackie, football player and fan,

Cheers on Graham Forrest with "Get in there, man!"

Cabot and Richie give advice to Bill
Daisy,

"Support your team and they'll never be lazy."

Glenn McGuan wills his red hair

To Virginia Simpson, a girl very fair.

Lawrence Miller gladly gives his car

To someone who dosen't want to drive very far.

Anna Zimmerman, who is a color guard,

Encourages Robin Reynolds to work really hard.

Mary Pfaff bequeaths her Dancing Boots smile

To Patricia Walker to use for a while.

Ann Warren, an excellent baker and cook,

Leaves Betsy Holton her recipe book.

Jean Hutcherson from Kay Travis is receiving

A box of paint brushes and a pretty oil painting.

Ann Hammill has found in dramatics much fun.

She wills her talent to Sharon Jackson.

Ann Cowan, our senior migrant from Gray,

Has said, "I like Reynolds so much that I'd love to stay."

The tall, blonde beauty, our Molly Cax,

Bequeaths to Nita her beautiful locks.

Class Prophecy

Becky Newsome, departing, leaves her clarinet reed to bandman, Bob Avery; it's something he'll need.

To Y-Teen program planning Ann
Cockerham says goodbye.

Remembering Monday night meetings,
Bill Bryant leaves the Hi-Y.

Robert and Mickey leave their helmets and football

To Howard and Steve, who will need them next fall.

We've told you our many thoughts and wishes.

We've willed to you juniors
everything but the fishes,

So now is the proper time to say

A fond farewell on our Senior Class
Day.

As the years fly by, and we all grow old,

Our love for you to our children will be told.

We'll tell them to gain knowledge and love their fellowman

And to cherish our beautiful school which on a hill does stand.

F. FITTS: Oh, let's look beyond Class Day. After all, they have three-fourths of their lives yet to live. Let's watch them use all the knowledge they have absorbed. Concentrate, prophets; move your minds on and on into the future. What do you see?

S. SWAIN: Wait! What's this? Many of the students are being graduated again.

H. HART: It's the end of their college careers. Equipped with this additional training, they will soon be rising to prominence in business, scholarship, and other activities.

C. PRATT: Let's look at the scholars . . . Karen Bernhard has become a geneticist at Columbia University. Experimenting in extra-sensory perception at Duke University is the famous para-psychologist, Doctor R. William Gegenheimer.

A. EISENBERG: Isn't he at present trying to decide how David Gaskins can carry on mental telepathy with ducks?

W. WASELL: Yes, and he is analyzing Zena Strub and Sandra Dunnagan to see whether they really have women's intuition.

H. HART: Phyllis Wolberg is a psychiatrist in Detroit, Michigan.
She has found that automobile manufacturers such as Clint Ashburn, the founder and president of Ashburn Motors, have far more problems than any one else on earth.

S. SWAIN: That's right. In his mammoth corporation Clint has five private secretaries: Carole Worrell, who is in charge of the files; Judy Sides, in charge of the customers; Judy Bennett, in charge of accounting; Barbara Masters, in charge of personnel; and Libby Wall, who doesn't do anything but stand around decorating the office.

C. PRATT: After a brilliant career as one of America's top commercial artists, Jeanne Gallman is the head of the advertising department. Melita Parker and Jerry Pegram are her assistants.
Lloyd Kennington is the designing executive, but Tammy Hauser does the work while Lloyd merely signs the specifications.

F. FITTS: But what about Clint's problems?

H. HART: Oh! Janet Gitter and Sandy Snyder have gone into business with Jane Fritts to raise horses. They are now heckling Ashburn Motors with such advertising slogans as "Horses use less gasoline." They are offering a year's supply of oats with every purchase.

A. EISENBERG: Sh! I see a piece of paper, a deed! Archie Whitley has bought out Perry Como's national bowling alley chain. It was Doug Kinney who put up the money. His book, Symptoms of Simplicity, was an international best seller. He had to hire mathematician David Robinson just to figure up his income per day.

W. WASELL: I see David Covington and Scott Johnson. They have become gold prospectors in the Sierra Nevadas. Because of the high cost of burros, they hired Terry Stewart and Virgil Williams to carry their gear. So far they've found nothing.

S. SWAIN: But they have come up with several suggestions on how to improve pork and beans and 101 ways to cook them as a steady diet.

F. FITTS: Why, some members of the class are leaving Tibet.

C. PRATT: Yes, they are being deported for trying to curb the market on Abominable Snowmen. The guilty ones are mountain climbers, Adela Kent Nash, Carol Kennedy, and Donald Mc-Knight.

F. FITTS: It was only with considerable difficulty that Arthur Woodward, American ambassador to Lhasa, with his assistants, Kelly Phillips and Don Springs, persuaded the Dalai Lama not to launch a nuclear attack on the United States, by pointing out that the Tibetan army is armed chiefly with slingshots.

W. WASELL: Mike Bradburn is another diplomat in the foreign service. He is in charge of Outer Mongolian affairs.

A. EISENBERG: Gordon Brown is now Dean of Yale Law School.
His most distinguished graduates have been Jack Granade and Carol Hamilton, who with Carroll Marshall, their legal secretary, have established a joint law firm specializing in automobile accident damage suits.

C. PRATT: Have they been successful?

S. SWAIN: Definitely! So far their most important clients are Gai Jenkins, a dashing stock-car driver, and Nancy Burgess, owner of a rental fleet of antique '59 Impalas.

H. HART: Oh!

W. WASELL: What's wrong? Why did you cry out?

H. HART: Because I just received an inspiration. I can see beyond the earth, far, far out into the heavens and among the hurtling bodies of space. Benny Orrell is in charge of the first manned rocket to Mars.

A. EISENBERG: Larry Chandler devoted years of research to the construction of the giant missile.

S. SWAIN: Orrell's party includes Frank Williams and Julian Drake, who will study the plant and animal life on Mars.

W. WASELL: Thus far Mars has been seen only by these people, who also included the renowned explorers; Grover Matlock, Aaron Mitchell, and Nancy Harrell, who were lost for six weeks while exploring the land areas of the planet.

C. PRATT: Let's come back to earth.

H. HART: You're just jealous because you can't see beyond the clouds.

C. PRATT: Many people are employed in foreign countries Cameron Cashwell and Tom Cooper, for example, have been hired by the Pasha of Uttermost Slobovia to train for the Olympics that country's tiddlywink team, consisting of Mickey Dowell, J. C. Ellison, Tom McKenzie, Clement Key, and Cecelia Elkins.

Class Prophecy

- F. FITTS: Jackie Butler and Mary Ruth Elliott are now in Indonesia under the auspices of a UN medical program to treat epidemics of the creeping jungle skin crawl.
- A. EISENBERG: Their able nurses are Nancie Fulton and Nancy Harvel, who will soon have the disease under control.
- S. SWAIN: I see that Judy Brande, Terry Fulp, and Henry Land are in Southern Rhodesia teaching the Zulus to read English.
- W. WASELL: Anna Beard and Sandy Stanford are at Harvard studying Ubangi under Diane Knighten so that they may become missionaries to Africa.
- F. FITTS: Yes, many people are studying abroad or representing the United States there. Barney Roberts is living among the cannibals of Borneo where he hopes to pick up some native rhythms for a jazz combo in Las Vegas and maybe some recipes on the side.
- H. HART: He was amazed to find Kent McKeithan, the great bongo player, living as the natives' great white chief.
- C. PRATT: Diane Patterson's all-stars who are touring Europe include Beth Ammons at the piano, Betsy Bryan on bass, and Linda Hauser, who tears up the music with a wild trombone. Singers for the group are Florence Wiles, Delores Assaf, and Ann Howard.
- W. WASELL: Phillip Simpson, the European correspondent for the Winston-Salem Journal, reports the great success of Judy Lawson and Mary Schindel's show of the ballet in Paris.
- A. EISENBERG: Becky Burgess has been studying at the Sorbonne in Paris, where Robin LaPrelle just submitted her Doctor's thesis on the "Influence of Buhddism on Contemporary Franco-British Thought Relations."
- H. HART: Mary Moore and Hilda Smith are also in Paris, where they are staying with Jane Lane in her apartment. They are writing poetry in the new musical language invented by Sandra Henry and Carol Redding. It took them years to establish the 300 vowel sounds in the new language.
- S. SWAIN: The Jan Kirkham group is now touring Siberia and giving evening benefit performances in behalf of destitute salt-miners. Dorothy Nowell, Rose Anne Pfohl, and Jackie Sechrist are the lead vocalists; Esther Crouse and Sue Rogan are first and second violinists.
- C. PRATT: Modern Jazz dancers, Rita Witt and Merinda Bennett, give variety to the show.
- W. WASELL: The noted critics Boris Pasternak and Charlotte Allen have reviewed the most recent play to be introduced in Russia. They describe this drama, Madhouse, by Tommy Hill, as the play-of-the-year. Madhouse stars Travis Shamel as Alfred E. Newman, the hero, and Janet Williams as the devoted child.
- F. FITTS: Enough of music, drama, and scholarship. I can see many of the 1960 graduates who have become professional athletes. Carolyn Upton and Nancy Cresswell are the world's fastest swimmers. Tennis starts, Karen Kappes and Jimmy Ayers, are the victors over all the present Australian champions.
- A. EISENBERG: Charles Cheech is on Shirley Lowery's bowling team.
- H. HART: That's the team which recently won that excruciating match with the Korean Bowling team, isn't it?
- A. EISENBERG: Yes, and Carolyn Price, Arthur Spaugh, and Benny Moore are planning to start a new bowling team with a new type of game; they try to hit a ball with all ten pins.
- S. SWAIN: But Benny isn't in complete agreement with them. He wants to use his golf club to knock the pins down the alley.
- C. PRATT: Speaking of golf, Bob Gibson has outshown Sammy Snead. He is now teaching Donald Dwiggins, Elaine Fulmer, and Walter Whitener how to play.
- F. FITTS: But the scene is changing. I see a wild, wide, white land. Cold and glistening beneath a frozen sun, it rises above the ice-bound sea.
- W. WASELL: Why, that's only Antarctica.
- S. SWAIN: Yes, but look—people!
- C. PRATT: People? All I can see are penguins.
- F. FITTS: You're some prophet! Look farther inland. Gail McKenzie, Shirley Gatewood, and Jack O'Brien are leaders of the American Antarctic Colony.
- H. HART: Naturally, John Miller is there to look after Rosser Marion's Jet planes.
- W. WASELL: Wilson Lamb is there to keep the radios working.
- A. EISENBERG: Emily Hester, Betsy Washburn, and Eugenia Mac-keras have just left Antarctica with several dozen recipes for preparing penguin steaks, walrus roasts, and whalebone soup.
- S. SWAIN: Sandra Livengood, Pat Pass, and Richard Church took up residence in the colony to escape the worry and frustration of civilized life. Billie Lanier and Henry Sapp want new views and inspirations to boost their artistic careers.
- F. FITTS: Margie Triplett is staying in Antarctica to perfect her ice-skating, which has won her world fame.
- C. PRATT: Several tourists have been attracted also. Among them is Ronald Mace whose book, How to Keep Warm in the Cold, brought him enough money to furnish Antarctica with an out-of-doors radiant heating system.
- H. HART: But the ice remains, for Iris Bonds, the soprano, reaching the highest note ever heard, destroyed Ronald's contribution to the colony.
- W. WASELL: Ronnie Gasque gave water skiing lessons to another tourist, Kay Wooten, during the season; while fishermen, Eddie Johnson and Larry Taylor, caught a small blue whale and are now mailing a five-year supply of blubber to friends back home.
- S. SWAIN: John Watson, the S. P. C. A. president, visited with Donald Huff long enough to investigate claims that certain colonists were being cruel to seals.
- F. FITTS: Paula Rau, the social worker, shortly afterwards issued a report on the suitability of Little America as a home for displaced Eskimos. Her survey is now under consideration by Bob Payne and Sandra Marshall in Washington.
- A. EISENBERG: I see a vision of success—Betty Whitener is running a secretarial school in New York; she has hired Carolyn Church, Judy Brookshire, and Patti Lewis to help her teach.
- C. PRATT: Oh, yes, on the same floor of the building, Diane Pipkin has her interior decorating studio, where Carole Simons designs furnishings in the modern Arabesque style she invented.
- H. HART: A short three blocks away, Mike Parish and his junior partners, Frank Lloyd Wright, Jr. and Bobby Jones, have established their offices. They are recognized as some of the best architects in the land.
- W. WASELL: Kay Priddy, Shirley Nichols, and Linda Finlayson run Fifth Avenue's most exclusive beauty salon and cosmetic sales-room. Their famous plaster of Paris and portland cement facial pack has enhanced the beauty of such models as Pat Williams and Molly Dwiggins.

Class Prophecy

- S. SWAIN: Adair Clifton, heiress to a colossal fortune in biscuit company stocks, has a standing account with Priddy-Nichols, Incorporated, to ship her a weekly supply of cosmetics.
- A. EISENBERG: In Denver, Colorado, Walter Brothers and Laidley Pannill have built a Western sports car center—the largest service center for foreign automobiles in the country.
- A. FITTS: Brenda Barringer joined the Navy and rose through the ranks to become the first woman ever to hold the position of chief of staff.
- C. PRATT: Jim Parsons is also prominent in Naval circles, as the first officer ever to sink a submarine by breaking the periscope glass.
- H. HART: In Russia, Carolyn Valetos is employed in Hotel Moscow as a telephone operator; actually she's an American espionage agent.
- W. WASELL: Do you see that Robert Chew and Bobby Leinbach, once electronics engineers, have turned into disc jockeys? Their programs consist of anything from Yugoslavian love songs to Brazilian work ballads. Sometimes they even include one of madcap composer Bill Smith's "Garbage-Can Serenades."
- C. PRATT: Jim Parks, a guide in the Yukon, set out to take photographer, Jack Stuart, in search of photogenic countryside. All they found, however, was revenueur Jim McCoy, combing the hills for bootleggers.
- F. FITTS: Guess what I see!
- S. SWAIN: I don't have to guess. I can see it too. It's David Angell, who is the head of the Intelligence Agency. He administers and directs the national Intelligence Tests.
- W. WASELL: He, in person, tested Eva Ann Adams, Ann Ashburn, and Pattie Bacon. In a confidential report to a scientific agency, he said that the results were "astounding!" By using a new machine they could remember dates they learned all the way back in senior history at Reynolds High School.
- H. HART: Jimmy Binkley, Susan Davidson, and Louis Bouvier, as a result of the same test, are being held for further study and observation at a nationally known institution for the ones with unusually high mentality.
- A. EISENBERG: Another leader in his field is Bill Crump, the warden of San Quentin Detention home, and Glenn Hart, who holds a similar post in Sing-Sing. So far none of their classmates have been imprisoned.
- F. FITTS: Doug Spear almost broke their record, but he called his senator, John Kinney, who ran on the Independent Pogo Ticket against Bill Gottenstrater. The misunderstanding was rapidly corrected.
- H. HART: Jimmy Stokes has become the "Liberator of the Caribbean," with his fearless band of adventurers, including David Hanna, Brent Evans, and Eddie Tierney.
- C. PRATT: The famed Stokes brigade is wreaking havoc among the principalities of the Antilles. John Jasinkiewicz, strong man of the Dominican Republic, fled with his follower Ronald Hodges upon the approach of the brigade.
- S. SWAIN: While in Cuba, Stokes and his associates were entertained by the new calypso group, Ben Blackburn and His Friends.
- A. EISENBERG: Bill McCanless and Johnny Rehder, who did run a banana plantation, joined the Stokes brigade in Haiti.
- W. WASELL: Bobby Stimpson became camp surgeon after he was accidentally captured. He and the nurse, Beverly Barrett, have been working on the removal of Bill Fobert's left hand from the springs in his bunk. Bill's fellow-soldier, Stan Dillon, had a broken rib set the same day. He accidentally shut himself up in his foot-locker.
- S. SWAIN: Oh, come now! Enough of the Revolution! Look how peaceful and prosperous everything is in America. Larry Cone is president of U.S. Steel, and Tom Davenport is the leader of the United Steel-Workers. At last harmony dominates the labor-management scene.
- F. FITTS: Fred Bradshaw is a supermarket executive who plays the stock market on the side. His broker, of course, is Joanne Reece, the mathematical genius who amassed a fortune on the market before she finished trigonometry in college.
- H. HART: Garry Pitts has opened a gymnasium with the slogan, "Grow Tall While You Can."
- W. WASELL: Andy Dinkins, with the assistance of Ralph Messick, runs a chain of restaurants called Andy's Handies.
- A. EISENBERG: Yes, I can see one now. It's in East Chicago. Do you see whom I see?
- C. PRATT: Who?
- A. EISENBERG: Oh, of course you couldn't see it.
- C. PRATT: Wait a minute, now I can. There are Rebecca Bowman, Leslie Davis, and Dale Thompson, lingering over well-done buffalo-burgers, the specialty of the house.
- H. HART: Martha Ann Roberson, Terry Decker, and Roddy Hunter raise buffaloes for commercial purposes. Their chief competitor is Wyoming cattle rancher, Roger Howard, whose booming business has made him and his share-croppers Bruce Cooper, Fred Burton, and Jimmy Willis millionaires.
- F. FITTS: Gene Miller and Curtis Cox are in the rare foods business. At present their business representative, Joe Ridgell, is in the Andes Mountains, trying to conclude a contract with Wilson Curlee, who is raising vicunas in Bolivia.
- A. EISENBERG: Patricia Ann Burton, translator for the UN, specializes in Hindustani.
- C. PRATT: Tommy Hayes has replaced Henry Cabot Lodge as permanent delegate to the UN from the United States.
- S. SWAIN: Look! Beth Chambers and Judy Martin are porpoise wrestlers at the Maritime Gardens in Florida.
- W. WASELL: Bill Cushman and Wayne Redman have become anthropologists. Right now they aren't studying anything because they are content to live on the money they made by investing their small savings in Carol Sheets's Instant Pizza Company. The endeavor was so successful that now her firm has produced instant ravioli, spaghetti, and lasagne.
- W. WASELL: Now then; we've seen the entire Class of 1960. I'm the best prophet on earth because I was able to see even the last of them.
- C. PRATT: Yes, but I was able to find the ones in foreign lands; I deserve first place.
- H. HART: No, neither of you is best—I am. Can't you remember how I predicted the conquest of outer space and saw those people on Mars?
- F. FITTS: You predicted it, but not all of us saw that at all. I don't believe it will ever happen; but I . . .

CLOSING

And so the contest ended. Each seer was convinced of his own superiority and refused to recognize the merits of any other. In fact we are in doubt whether any of them predicted the future truthfully.

Historians: Agnes Fitts, Ann Hart

Working as sponsors of the Student Council are Mrs. McDermott and Mr. Morrow.

The purpose of the Student Council is to uphold and promote the Honor System in order to develop a keen sense of personal honesty in each student. The members presented this purpose at an interesting and original chapel program in which they discussed student government and violations of the Honor Policy. Other of their activities included helping new teachers with registration, attending the State Convention in Durham, and conducting the prayers during exams.

Running in the halls, trash on the school grounds, trays left on the cafeteria tables — these were familiar problems discussed by the House of Representatives this year. The members, who met on the second Tuesday of every month, worked constantly to uphold the standards of the honor policy and to promote the general welfare of the school.

Ann Warren and Suson Thorpe, Senior Editors, work with seemingly endless numbers of pictures.

PHYLLIS RAY
Co-Editor

MARY ELIZABETH HUNT
Co-Editor

Jone Morsholl and Sue French, Junior Editors, at last identify the junior pictures.

I. B. Southerland and Dick Porter, our photographers, rest for a minute during their busy schedule.

Room 124 seemed to be in a state of perpetual confusion as the Black and Gold staff members rushed frantically to meet the annual deadline. There never seemed to be a day when flash bulbs weren't popping, typewriters clicking, or students calling out instructions. It was worth all the effort, however, when the annual finally arrived from the printers and the staff viewed their excellent creation.

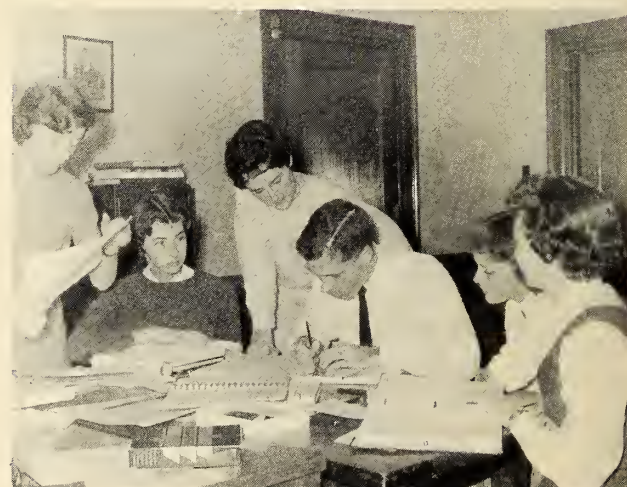

Cecelio Elkins works as Art Editor and April Collier thinks of ideas as Caption Editor.

Black And Gold

Jody Vance, Faculty Editor, and Landis Wilcox, Write-Up Editor, study plans for the annual.

Members of the staff watch as Mr. Bill Hunter, our publisher, helps us to draw the dummy.

Henry Sopp, Art Editor, adds delightful drawings to our newspaper.

CHRIS FARREN
Co-Editor

CECILE MAYRAND
Managing Editor

Nancy Pike, Normon Wilkerson, and Doug Kinney, Sports Editors, report all exciting games to us.

Terry Beitchmon, Exchange Editor, sends our paper to other schools and friends.

The Pine Whispers staff spent one week each month in a frenzy of make-ups, assignment sheets, headlines, cuts, captions, and red pencils. The other three weeks were spent in publishing the Bohemian, parties for Ray Welch, sports car comparisons, and annoying the Annual staff. This work - and - play combination, added vitality to the paper and made the year one which the journalists will never forget.

Jane Morsholl and Sue French head the Editorial staff.

Pine Whispers

April Collier and Jon Bednerik, Feature Editors, work to express their ideas.

Miss Bettie Mobley, our Adviser, always gives us help and encouragement.

The National Honor Society

The hard-working members of the National Honor Society had a busy year during which they acted as guides on College Day, introduced speakers for Vocational Guidance Week, and helped with many other school activities. Twice during the year they donned the traditional long black robes and inducted new members into their ranks.

Key Club

The beautiful star shining from the top of the school during Christmastime is just one example of the many projects of the Key Club members. Other evidences of their services are the bright black and gold trash cans outside the cafeteria, the Kingston Trio records that were sold for the March of Dimes, and the pins that are proudly worn by the cheerleaders and majorettes. The high point of the year for the members was the annual Key Club Follies, which were presented in April.

Carol Howell was elected Key Club Sweetheart for 1960.

Members took down the traditional Christmas Star on top of the auditorium.

Senior Service Club

Members Are: B. Grant, L. H. Hutchens, R. Warren, B. Shaffner, B. Lormare, S. Little, D. Frizzelle, I. B. Southerland, M. Parrish, J. Stuart, K. Fax, N. Wilkerson, P. Davis, R. Boggs, T. Brawn, C. Ashcraft, B. Orrell, W. Tennille.

Mr. Mitchell serves as spansar of the Senior Service Club.

Members of the S. S. C. help construct a stand for the cheerleaders.

And what would you like for Christmas, Mr. Joyner?

Senior Service Club

Clean fish ponds and peppy "beat 'em" togs — these have almost become symbols of the many activities of the S.S.C. Throughout the year, the enterprising members seemed always to be ready to do a service for the school, the students, or the faculty. Their projects included building the cheerleaders' stand, giving the traditional Christmas Tea for the faculty, sponsoring basketball homecoming, displaying the Demon at football games, and keeping the records in the gym juke box up-to-date.

Ready, aim, fire!—Benny Orrell lights the S. S. C. bonfire.

College Club

The senior girls who joined the College Club this year learned that being a member was a rewarding and an enjoyable experience. The girls gained many helpful hints about college from their sponsors and from guest speakers, and they carried on traditional projects such as the open house after graduation.

The officers of the club are, Seated: Patsy Bowers, president. Standing: Landis Wilcox, secretary; Frances Speos, vice-president; Ann Stone, treasurer.

Miss Weaver and Mrs. Spencer are the sponsors for the College Club.

College Club members are busy at work making the graduation caps for the senior girls.

Pep Board

Susan Thorpe and Ellen Holmes work together as co-chairmen of the Pep Board.

Posters, shakers, and "beat 'em" tags — all these show the part played by the Pep Board in boosting school spirit at Reynolds. During the year the energetic members could be found in their homerooms, taking up pennies, nickles, and dimes for telegrams; in the stadium roping off the student cheering section; or on the stage taking part in the Homecoming chapel programs.

Members of the Pep Board Council are, Standing: Frances Speas, Carol Howell, Diane Smithdeal, Ann Speas. Seated: Betty Chafin, Jimmy Bunn, Vickie Eckvall.

Officers of the Senior Hi-Y are: Carl Adams, president; Howard Butner, vice-president; Norma Wilkerson, treasurer; Jim Bulla, chaplain; and Lyle Blalock, secretary.

The Hi-Y Sponsors are, left to right: Sandra Lineberger, Sally Eisenberg, Sara Young, Doris Goodwin.

The Senior Hi-Y has been very active this year with socials, service projects, and participation in basketball. Led by their sponsor, Mr. Dale Gramley, the hard-working members purchased new jackets, held a dance at Camp Hanes, and made $100 which they gave to World Service and Buildings for Brotherhood. The Hi-Y also had the distinction of being the only club in the Winston-Salem district to send delegates to the Hi-Y Convention for two consecutive years.

Sounds like a great idea!

Every Monday night the Senior Y-Teens could be found in the living room of the YMCA, planning projects and socials or listening to speakers on such topics as flower arranging, Russia, and religion. This year was highlighted by a very profitable bake sale held at the Food Fair, and a dance featuring the Gore Combo.

The officers of the Senior Y-Teens are Nancy Wasell, president; Ann Cockerham, vice - president; Phyllis Snyder, I. C. C.; Nancy Dunham, treasurer; Meriel Mitchell, rec. sec.; and Susan Blackmore, corr. sec.

Senior Varsity

The students at Reynolds are not likely to forget the many thrills they received from the 1959-1960 football season. It was a season that saw the Black Demon team rise to fame as a well recognized state power, and one which ended with the impressive record of six wins, one loss, and four ties. Many individual honors were won by the players, including Britt Smith and Lyle Blalock, who were elected to the All-Conference and All-State teams. All of the boys, however, contributed to make a team and a season which they will always look back on with pride.

"A dribble, a pass, a shot, and in!" — these words rang out time and time again as Reynolds students cheered enthusiastically for their fine basketball team. With Bill Grant as captain and Mr. Ray Whitley as coach, the boys played basketball that everyone enjoyed watching. Although they got off to a fairly slow start, the players improved greatly as the season progressed and they later developed into a very strong team.

Baseball Team

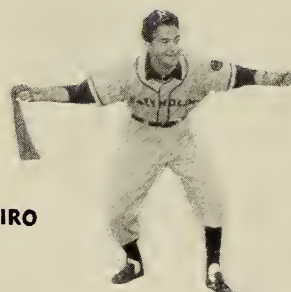

This season was another exciting one for the members of the Black Demon baseball team. Led by their coach, Mr. Herman Bryson, the team played two conference games each with Greensboro, Lexington, High Point, Salisbury, and Burlington. Among the outstanding players this season were Britt Smith, the only returning starter from the '59 team, and Joe White, a junior hurler who had two years previous experience. Altogether, the boys made up a good team which won many fans at Reynolds.

G. A. A.

The swish of ice-skates, the roar of a bowling ball, the whack of a tennis racquet — these are just a few of the sounds that identify the many sports sponsored by the G.A.A. The members enjoyed participation in sports as well as socials such as the Council outing and the annual Mother-Daughter Banquet.

Intra-Mural Council members are Judy Collins, Nancy Gardner, Eva Mae Foxworth, Ann Cockerham, Jeanette Cox.

Officers of the G. A. A. are Gail Sovage, point recorder; Ann Badgett, secretary; Donna Dull, secretary; Beth Swain, president; Sharon Taylor, vice-president; Phyllis Dunham, treasurer; Linda Lockord, point recorder.

Miss Dinkins is our G. A. A. sponsor with a helping word and smile for every girl on the campus.

*Add to her fame and power,
God bless our school.*
